Dear Stakeholder:

As part of our government's commitment to keeping Ontarians safe and supporting Ontarians' access to justice in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, we brought into force an emergency order in April 2020 to allow virtual witnessing of powers of attorney and wills on a temporary basis.

As we continue to work urgently to move justice services online and break down barriers to justice for Ontarians no matter where they live, I am pleased to advise that those temporary virtual witnessing measures were brought permanently into law through the Accelerating Access to Justice Act, 2021 which received Royal Assent on April 19, 2021.

When our government introduced that Act, we set out to simplify a complex and outdated justice system and make it easier for people to resolve their legal matters. We also sought to assist and protect vulnerable Ontarians.

As a result, the Accelerating Access to Justice Act, 2021 also contains slight legislative changes to the virtual witnessing process to require that the signatures of witnesses be made when the virtual witnessing occurs and not at a later date. These amendments clarify concerns about the validity of wills and powers of attorney that arose out of non-contemporaneous signing. These changes will operate on a go-forward basis, when they come into force on May 20, 2021. On that same date, O. Reg. 129/20, which initially enabled the virtual witnessing process on a temporary basis, will expire.

In addition, the estates modernization provisions which would amend the Succession Law Reform Act will be proclaimed in force on January 1, 2022.

You will recall that these legislative changes to the Succession Law Reform Act would allow, in certain cases, for separated married spouses to be treated in the same way as divorced spouses in allocating the estate where a spouse dies with or without a will.

An additional consequential amendment to the Family Law Act, would clarify spouses' rights to elect to seek or not to seek an equalization of net family property under the Family Law Act following the exclusion of separated married spouses from inheriting when there is no will.

Lastly, in order to prevent a testator's wishes from being frustrated by failure to meet formal requirements, an amendment to the Succession Law Reform Act would grant courts the authority to validate wills that reflect testamentary wishes, but which were not made in complete compliance with the formality requirements for making a will.

Once again, I would like to take this opportunity to thank those of you who participated in our estate reforms consultation as well as those who provided submissions to the Standing Committee – your input has been invaluable.

I look forward to our ongoing collaboration on estates reform as our government continues our work to make Ontario's justice system more accessible, responsive, and resilient.

Sincerely,
