

Green Energy Consultants

Once considered an emerging industry, green energy has now become an international business, expanding all over the world from a single domestic home to massive national schemes providing energy for the masses.

The focus on the green energy sector has never been higher, with governments around the world setting tough targets for the amount of energy provided by renewable sources. With the technology in this sector evolving at a fast rate of knots, only being overshadowed by the speed at which the regulations and rules governing the sector are changing, it is important that the experts providing advice and design to this sector have suitable insurance cover in place to protect their ever changing exposures.

In a fast growing and fast changing sector like green energy it is important that your insurance broker is fully in touch with the rapidly evolving risks that your business faces and the cover that they recommend fully meets the specific risks the company is exposed to.

Our client-focussed approach means we provide specific advice for your needs and tailor the Insurance purchased to meet these specific needs. Our knowledge and understanding of the sector along with our access to leading insurers and Lloyd's means we are able to provide access to competitive insurance products for a variety of Green Energy Consultants including but not limited to:

- Energy assessors
- Ecological consultants
- Energy wholesalers
- Carbon footprint analysis/advice consultants
- Environmental impact assessors
- Renewable energy consultants
- Green Energy Engineers
